
Prof. Elżbieta Stadtmüller, PhD, Hab.

Contact: elzbieta.stadtmuller@uwr.edu.pl

Her main fields of present teaching and research activity are: political aspects of international relations focused on global problems and security, regional cooperation and governance in various regions, theory of international relations and security, foreign policy of the CEE countries. European integration, especially its role in processes of transformation in the CEE, Eastern enlargement.

Diploma thesis can concern following areas:

- globalization and regionalization (political, social and cultural aspects)
- global problems,
- global and regional governance,
- security and conflicts in the contemporary world,
- the EU and European integration in the context of international relations;
- foreign policy of states;
- area studies (political events and processes in various regions of the world).

Jarosław Jarzabek PhD

Contact: jaroslaw.jarzabek@uwr.edu.pl

Holds PhD in political sciences and MA in international studies. He specializes in the research areas related to the politics of security, armed conflicts, terrorism, religious fundamentalism and extremism. In the area studies he focuses on the Middle East and North Africa.

Students participating in his diploma seminar may choose the topics of their Bachelor thesis from the following areas:

- international relations in the comparative perspective
- global studies and global security threats
- political sciences (selected issues)
- security studies
- Middle Eastern studies
- armed conflicts

Karolina Olszewska PhD

Contact: karolina.olszewska@uwr.edu.pl

Karolina Olszewska, PhD, is an Assistant Professor at Department of International Economic Relations and European Integration.

Major Research Interests:

innovation economics, international and global expansion of European companies, legal and socio-economic dimensions of Digital Revolution, EU competitiveness in a global economy

Fields of potential BA-thesis supervision or support:

international business:

- innovation and internationalization of companies, international mergers and acquisitions, corporate social responsibility, business ethics, international entrepreneurship development, SME competitiveness, strategic management and multinational enterprises, analysis of the investment climate of countries, cross-culture management and its impact on innovation and creativity of companies, organizational culture and innovation, leadership development and international business experiences innovation economics:

- digital transformation of the economy, national innovation policy, governance and the role of smart cities in the socio-economic development, analysis of business support policy and institutions, development of technology parks, cluster policies, role of technology in emerging markets' growth, innovation management, patent-intensive industries, e-commerce policy, digital privacy protection and data-dependent economy and society, regional innovation development, EU-US economic cooperation in the field of R&D, innovation and economic transformation of the CEE.